State Primary and General Elections

August 16 Election

The August election will NOT be by-mail like the special primary earlier this summer. Voters can go to their local precinct the day of the election, early vote, or request an absentee ballot like prior elections.

Voters will first vote in an open, pick 1 primary. Voters won't have to choose a ballot – under the new system, all primary candidates for each office are on the same ballot, regardless of political affiliation, and voters will pick their favorite. The top four vote-getters advance to the November general election.

Find your sample ballots for the primary election on the Division of Elections website.

Voters will also have their first opportunity to vote on a ranked choice race in August. On the reverse side of their ballot, they will decide the U.S. House special election for Alaska's Representative that will serve until the next term starting in January.

November 8 Election

In November, voters will vote on multiple ranked choice races as well as several yes/no items such as the automatic Constitutional Convention ballot question.

Some helpful reminders for voters on ranked choice races are:

- Rank the candidates you like in order of preference.
- Your favorite is your first choice.
- Ranking other candidates doesn't affect your first choice.
- When you rank the candidates, you give your vote more power.

ELECTIONS— Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How does Ranked Choice Voting work?

A: In each race, voters will rank their choices in order of preference. Votes are counted in rounds.

This is what happens:

Round One:

The Division counts all 1st choices. If a candidate gets 50% + 1 vote in round one, that candidate wins and the counting stops. If not, counting goes to Round Two.

Round Two (and beyond):

The candidate with the fewest votes gets eliminated. If you voted for that candidate, your vote goes to your next choice and you still have a say in who wins.

If your first choice candidate was not eliminated, your vote stays with them. Votes are counted again.

This keeps happening in rounds until two candidates are left and the one with the most votes wins.

Q: If I rank four candidates, does that mean I voted four times?

A: No. Only one vote counts per race. Your 2nd (or later) choice only matters if your 1st choice fails to get enough votes and is eliminated.

Q: Do I have to rank all of the candidates?

A: You can rank as many or as few as you want. Ranking additional candidates ensures that you have a voice in choosing your representative, even if that person is not your 1st choice.

Q: When will we know who wins?

A: Alaska law allows ballots that are postmarked by Election Day and received within 15 days to be counted. Only 1st choice results will be released until all votes are processed, then reports showing how many votes each candidate had in every round, and how votes were transferred when candidates were eliminated, will be available on the Division of Elections website (elections.alaska.gov).
